Fire Island National Seashore

The Fire Island National Seashore was established in 1964 to preserve the only developed barrier island in the United States without roads.

The 32-mile-long island is comprised of a state park at its western end, a county park at its easternmost end, 17 communities and four National Seashore areas, including a 7-mile-long federally designated wilderness area.

The island's bay-marshes, forests, ocean dunes and wide beaches are home to a diversity of wildlife. The nesting areas of two endangered shorebirds, the piping plover and tern, are protected by the National Seashore.

Ferry service for Sailors Haven and Sunken Forest is available from the Sayville Ferry dock on River Road in Sayville. The ferry schedule is coordinated with some Long Island Rail Road trains, which arrive and depart from the Sayville station.

Daily parking is available within walking distance of the ferry terminal.

Sailors Haven is considered "The Jewel in the Crown" of the Fire Island National Seashore, combining the Sunken Forest with a magnificent, wide ocean beach.

A National Seashore visitor center with nature exhibits, and a snack bar and gift shop are located on the bay front near the ferry dock. On either side of the dock - with a magnificent view of the Great South Bay and its variety of pleasure boats - are picnic areas with tables and barbecue pits.

The beach is a short distance away, along the main boardwalk, which is bordered on the west by the Sunken Forest. It is favored by nature lovers and families where children can freely play in the ocean waters under the watchful eye of lifeguards and build castles in the clean, sparkling sand.
